

PLEASE NOTE:

Plaintiff MEISTER is not mailing ten copies of each document (as apparently required by the Rules of the United States Supreme Court). The Plaintiff does not have the funds to make these copies. The Plaintiff is proceeding In Forma Pauperis. To require the Plaintiff to mail these copies and/or to deny the Plaintiff's request for a Writ of Certiorari on the basis of a failure to make and mail such copies is to foreclose the Plaintiff's opportunities to receive that amount of protections that are guaranteed by the United States Constitution. The Constitution's founding fathers did not intend to foreclose an aggrieved party's opportunities to have his or her day in the United States Supreme Court because he is lacking the funds to produce what is arguably an extensive amount of copies.

Respectfully submitted,

Christian Meister
